Equitable Services for Nonpublic Schools

- NYSED's guidance on equitable services for nonpublic schools is intended to ensure that the BUFSD shares Title funds with all eligible private schools

How do Schools Receive Title I Funds?

School districts receive an allocation based on the number of low-income children in the district

Funds are distributed among schools based on the percentage of students who are eligible for free/reduced price lunch

The percentage of eligible free/reduced price lunch students in Brentwood schools typically ranges from 80% to 93%

BUFSD Priorities, Title I, Part A

- Elementary
 - Supporting students' physical, social and emotional health
 - Improving state ELA and math assessment participation rates
 - Improving state ELA and math proficiency rates district-wide
 - Improving state ELA and math proficiency rates for subgroups where achievement gaps have been noted, including: English Language Learners (ELLs), Students with Disabilities, and Economically Disadvantaged students

BUFSD Priorities, Title I, Part A

- Secondary
 - Increasing graduation rates
 - Decreasing drop-out rates for “at-risk” youth, particularly for ELLs, where an achievement gap has been noted

Title I Services for Students: Academic Intervention

Students who score below proficiency levels on state tests in core academic subjects (i.e., English Language Arts, mathematics) receive academic intervention services (AIS).

AIS varies depending on the needs of the child (Math and/or Reading lab, research-based systematic intervention programs, small group instruction, extra period of instruction, etc.).

Schools provide parents of students receiving AIS services with the following information: the reason why the child has been identified, the type of services the child will receive, and when the services will begin and end. In addition, schools provide parents with reports on the child's academic progress in the AIS program via conferences and trimester report cards.

Services are based on scientific research regarding effective instructional practices.

Detailed information on AIS services can be obtained through your child's classroom teacher.

Parent and Family Engagement

As a Title I parent, you have the right to:

- Ask for information related to your child's academic performance
- Participate in parent meetings and conferences
- Review the educational credentials of your child's teachers and/or teaching assistants
- Review your school's achievement data
- Participate in the development and evaluation of the school's parent involvement policy and the school-parent compact via the School Improvement Team (SIT) and PTA

Parent Involvement Policy & Compact

All Title I schools must adopt a parent involvement policy and compact.

The compact describes how the school and parents will work together to promote student achievement.

The parent involvement policy describes how the school will involve parents and families in planning, review and improvement of the Title I program at the school.

School Improvement team and PTA work collaboratively!

Stay Involved in Your Child's Education!

Ask questions about the instructional program in your child's school.

Join the PTA and get involved on school committees.

Participate in the review of Title I parent policies and activities at your school.

Contact the Office of Funded Programs if you have any questions about Title I.

Things every parent should know about New York State's plan for the Every Student Succeeds Act

What is ESSA?	The Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) is a law that outlines how states can use federal money to support public schools. In January 2018, the federal government approved New York State's plan to spend the approximately $1.6 billion the state receives annually under ESSA.
Why does it matter?	New York State is committed to ensuring that all students succeed and thrive in school no matter who they are, where they live, where they go to school, or where they come from. Since fall 2016, New York State asked for feedback to design a plan that improves equity, access, and opportunity for all students.
What do parents need to know?	Below are highlights of important elements for parents and families in the plan. We encourage you to visit the ESSA Section of NYSED's website to learn more about the plan.

1 New York State values a well-rounded education for all.

Parents and families should know how their child's school is performing in many areas, not just academic subjects.

Schools and districts will be measured annually on these indicators		Future indicators
For all schools	For high schools
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> English language arts Math Science Progress in learning English (for those who are learning English as an additional language) Chronic absenteeism (absent 10% or more instructional days) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Social studies Graduation rate College, career, and civic readiness index: taking advanced coursework, earning technical education certificates, etc. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Out-of-school suspensions (beginning with 2018-19 results) Being ready for high school (once data becomes available)

2 New York State wants to reduce testing time and improve the testing experience.

State tests in grades 3-8 English and math will be reduced from three to two days each.

95%

The law requires that 95% of students in each tested subgroup take the appropriate state tests. New York State will work with parents, schools, and districts to increase participation.

New York State will continue to translate state math and science tests into more languages, and when funding becomes available, will create a language arts tests in students' native languages.
